

Statement from Brightwells Auctioneers

We are dismayed at the comments currently being levied at us following the Sale at Builth Wells on Saturday 14th May. We took advice from both the local RSPCA and our veterinary surgeon, Dr Bertie Ellis, before we accepted Mr Evans' ponies for sale. We believe that in the best interests of the animals, it was incumbent upon us to assist in finding them new homes.

As announced at the start of the Sale on the 14th May, this was the final consignment from the Criccieth Stud that Brightwells would offer.

Brightwells is proud of its reputation, which has been hard earned over 150 plus years and we will not hesitate to take action to protect it should it prove necessary. We believe that we have acted very responsibly in this case and our actions do not condone the condition of the animals, they merely display our acceptance of our responsibility to assist in changing it.
